

John Theurer
Cancer Center
at Hackensack University Medical Center

DIRECTOR of THORACIC SURGERY THORACIC SURGEON

Hackensack University Medical Center seeks two dedicated Thoracic Surgeons to expand its thoracic surgery program. Located in the greater New York metropolitan area, HUMC is a HealthGrades Top 50, Magnet Award-winning 775-bed teaching facility. Our highly regarded, patient-centered John Theurer Cancer Center will relocate into its free-standing new 155,000 sq. ft. building in 2010.

These positions represents an extraordinary opportunity for a mid-career thoracic surgeon and an experienced colleague to build a destination program in one of the most progressive regions in the country with excellent schools, recreation, and cultural attractions.

Excellent institutional resources are in place, and a generous compensation package, including recruitment and salary support, will be provided.

Interested candidates should respond by email with cover letter and CV to:
